

A Christmas Poem

Twas the week before Christmas, when all 'round the firm
Everyone was anxious, trying not to squirm.
The files in Steve's office were stacked to the sky
Just waiting to be finished before falling awry.

Monica in her office, she was tying up loose ends,
Happily looking forward to holidays with friends.
Kim was on the road, making visits right and left
Trying to ensure no one was bereft.

Brenda was drafting documents and answering phones
All the while thinking about things happening at home.
Janice was up to her elbows in bank statements
Trying to find out whose tenants were paying rents.
Molly dog was lounging, her tail all awag
Hoping to grab snacks from someone's gift bag.
Cordy was scanning--HP finally came through.
She can now get files on one disc, not two.

A norther was blowing, the sleet started falling;
The clients on the calendar had all begun calling.
Ice to drive on, not so much fun,
But business is business, and business must go on.

Steve sent everyone home, he closed up the shop
And off everyone went, with a skip and a hop.
But Kim didn't know, she was out on the road
And she went to the office, to drop off her load.

Continued on page 2

Molly Benson, Office Dog

Meet Molly, the newest member of the Katten & Benson Team. Se is a pure breed office dog, and does a fanstastic job of greeting clients and visitors.

Molly is a mature and dignified nine-year old pup. She was a rescue dog, and she will tell anyone and everyone what a lucky dog she is.

Molly's favorite pastimes are playing with chew toys and doing tricks. Peanut butter is a favorite snack. When she's not working, you can find Molly at home sleeping on the couch, when her siblings Picasso, Matisse and Oliver will allow it.

A Christmas Poem continued from page 1

As she pulled into the lot, trying not to slide,
She saw a sleigh taking off with a glide.
It was Santa in the sleigh, with his eight reindeer.
Kim shook her head, thinking "Why was he here"?

Once in the office she looked all around
Up at the ceiling and down on the ground.
All the work was done, the piles were all gone
With gifts all in place, for each and everyone.

Kim ran out the door and into the lot,
And as the sleigh pulled away she had this thought:
"Santa came to the office, he really was here!
Bringing us gifts and spreading good cheer!

K & B Happenings

For the second year in a row, Katten Benson has decorated a Christmas Tree to be auctioned off at Tanglewood Oaks Assisted Living.

The money raised will be donated to Meals on Wheels and Guardianship Services.

You are all invited to go by Tanglewood Oaks (2698 S. Hulen, Fort Worth, TX 76109) to bid on a tree or to drop off unwrapped gifts (no food, candy or perfume, please) for forgotten seniors through the holiday season.

